SECTION – B (Marks 40)

Q. 2 Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions appended to it.

Note: Question No. (i) about summary writing is compulsory carrying 08 marks while rest of the questions carry 04 marks each. (8 + 5 x 4 = 28)

It is said that the world has become a global village and we, as the global citizens, need to protect our common cultural and natural heritage irrespective of where these are. The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) World Heritage Sites are places of outstanding cultural or natural importance to all humanity. UNESCO has designated six sites in Pakistan as World Heritage Sites and twenty-six sites are on the tentative list. They are: Archaeological Ruins of Moenjodaro, Ancient Monuments at Makli, Thatta, Buddhist Ruins of Takht-i-Bahi and Remains at Sahr-e-Bahlol, Lahore Fort and Shalamar Gardens in Lahore, and the Rohtas Fort. Let's see what made these sites so important.

The ancient civilization of Mohenjo-Daro dates back to 26BC. In fact, it is believed to be the oldest physical evidence of urban planning. From well-planned streets to baked brick structures and a sophisticated drainage system, the layout of this historic settlement proves the occupants of Indus Valley were not only expert planners but were also well-versed in complex civil engineering.

After being abandoned some 3,000 years ago, Mohenjo-Daro remained buried under layers of dust and sand for several centuries. Archaeologists re-discovered it in 1920 in what is now the modern-day district of Larkana in Sindh. The opulence of the lost city became quite apparent after historians found valuable gold, ivory and lapis lazuli artefacts among other precious metals and stones. This historical site was added to the list of UNESCO World heritage Sites in 1980.

Taxila includes a Mesolithic cave and the archaeological remains of four early settlement sites, Buddhist monasteries, and a Muslim mosque and madrasa. Situated near the Silk Road that linked China to the West, Taxila reached its zenith between the 1st and 5th centuries. It is now one of the most important archaeological sites in Asia. One of the sites, the Bihir mound, is associated with the historic event of the triumphant entry of Alexander the Great into Taxila. Buddhist monuments erected throughout the Taxila valley transformed it into a famous religious destination for pilgrims from Central Asia and China. This historical site was added to the list of UNESCO World Heritage Sites in 1980.

(i) Write down the summary of the given passage and suggest a suitable title. (7+1=8)

(ii) What is our responsibility as a global citizen?

OR

What are the six UNESCO World heritage sites of Pakistan mentioned in the passage?

Q. 2 Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions appended to it.

Note: Question No. (i) about summary writing is carrying 08 marks while rest of the questions carry 04 marks each. (8 + 5 x 4 = 28)

The day slowly passed. As it grew dark, they could still see the leaf hanging from its branch against the wall. And then, as the night came, the north wind began again to blow. The rain still beat against the windows. When it was light enough the next morning, Johnsy again commanded that she be allowed to see.

The leaf was still there.

Johnsy lay for a long time looking at it. And then she called to Sue, who was cooking something for her to eat.

"I've been a bad girl, Sue," said Johnsy. "Something has made that last leaf stay there to show me how bad I was. It is wrong to want to die. I'll try to eat now. But first bring me a looking-glass, so that I can see myself. And then I'll sit up and watch you cook."

An hour later she said, "Sue, someday I hope to paint the bay of Naples."

The doctor came in the afternoon. Sue followed him into the hall outside Johnsy's room to talk to him.

"The chances are good," said the doctor. He took Sue's thin, shaking hand in his. "Give her good care, and she'll get well. And now I must see another sick person in this house. His name is Behrman. A painter, I believe. Pneumonia, too. Mike is an old, weak man, and he is very ill. There is no hope for him. But we take him to the hospital today. We'll make it as easy for him as we can."

The next day the doctor said to Sue: "she's safe. You have done it. Food and care now-that's all."

And that afternoon Sue came to the bed where Johnsy lay. She put one arm around her.

(i) Write down the summary of the given passage and suggest a suitable title. (7+1=8)

Q. 2 Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions appended to it.

Note: Question No. (i) about summary writing is compulsory carrying 08 marks while rest of the questions carry 04 marks each. (8 + 5 x 4 = 28)

In Pakistan, family is a "bond of relationships", which strengthens the relationship of a family. Family members love and respect each other without any expectations.

The tenets of Islam further strengthens this bond, the existing family ties, based on selflessness, are well watered by the injunctions of Islam. According to Islam, we must look after our parents, especially in their old age, when they are gone perish minded. It can be said that universal teachings of our religion are the essential part of our family values.

People in Pakistan mostly follow the joint family system and live their lives with their parents. They give much respect to their customs and traditions and pay due attention to family values. The value of a strong family system has played an important role in influencing an individual's way of living, social role, choice of profession and decision-making. A strong family unit creates a safe, positive and supportive place for all members to thrive in. They are able to utilize resources and live together in a fairly healthy manner.

Each member of a Pakistani family has respect for the elder family members. The grandparents form a central beacon in a traditional Pakistani family. They are treated with reverence and hold an authoritative place. They work together with other elder family members to solve problems and pass their skills and experiences to the next generation. They are good "role models" and are looked upon as the primary source of guidance. Accordingly, they are provided with care and support from their family members.

The male members of the family are generally considered to be the guardians of the family and play a significant role for the well-being of their family. When all the male members work together and contribute equally to the family, the financial burden is minimized and the elements of jealousy and evil also remain under control. The family members are able to prosper and thrive together.

- (i) Write down the summary of the given passage and suggest a suitable title. (7+1=8)
(ii) According to the passage, what does the term "bond of relationship" refer in the context of a family?
